

1. From the checkpoint you are now going to follow the new Tommy Moor Lane. Pass through the gap in the fence where you meet a metal fence with a footpath diversion sign on it. Turn left to follow the diversion. The old Tommy Moor Lane has been demolished by the quarry. The new Tommy Moor Lane undulates its way parallel with the road and descends down to the village of Creswell. After a while the lane bends 90° to the right and after a few paces round to the left to join the old Tommy Moor's Lane. Where you rejoin the "old lane" cross over to go beyond the trees to turn left to walk with fence immediately on your right and trees on your left. After about 25m this path turns 90° right. You will have a wall on your left and fencing on your right. You are now positively on the final stretch of the Burton Joyce to Whitwell 41-mile walk and you are encircling the quarry bund as you head back to Whitwell. To your left across the fields is the village of Creswell. On reaching a fence pass through the gap on the right and continue straight ahead, still with fence on your right and open fields on your left. On meeting a wall, pass through the narrow gap and continue straight ahead, still with fence on your right and open fields to your left.
2. The path finally reaches its end at a bench and beyond that is the railway line (the Robin Hood Line). Turn 90° right to walk up the obvious path up some steps. Fence on your right and left. Once at the top the path levels out for a while before a short 20m rise at the top of which you will meet a wall and a sign saying Keep Out. Here you turn 90° left. This section of the path is crossing over the tunnel which the Robin Hood Line runs through. After approximately 30m take the path down to the left. Do not turn right, but turn left to go downhill, fence on your right and metal fence/hedgerow on your left. After 200m or so the path descends slightly and bends round to the right. The path eventually comes to a full stop by a wall and takes a 90° turn to the right. Still a very wide track, bordered either side by hedgerow.
3. After approximately 200m you will see a left turn. Turn left to walk down this lane which leads to the road from Boaler's Corner to Bakestone Moor and to your right is a renovated farmhouse. On reaching a stile, cross over and continue for a few paces to reach the road. Here turn right to follow the road into the village of Whitwell. Once in the village and after passing the first few houses (terraced then semi det.) the road bend sharply right. 300m beyond this is the Royal Oak public house....your destination.

Walk Complete!

Time now to rest those aching legs and enjoy a very well earned pint or 6!
